

SAA Project Update June 1, 2023

During the previous reporting periods we designed and completed a feeding study using California yellowtail and five different diets containing various types of soybean meal. In this reporting period, we assessed gene expression for five genes among the different dietary treatments. We did not see any significant differences in gene expression at the end of the trial.

Results for liver and gut histology are pending.